

CALL FOR CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

New Trade Magazine for Energy Professionals and Businesses in South Africa

Penergy Media (Pty) Ltd is looking for Contributing Editors for its new quarterly energy publication titled Energy Harvest, aimed at energy businesses and professionals in South Africa. This publication offers comprehensive and cohesive information on various aspects of the energy sector in South Africa, with the intent to empower professionals to become rounded experts in their fields and help business to thrive in their operating environment with information that aids in the fulfilment of their statutory obligations.

Energy Harvest critically examines industry developments against policy and regulatory perspectives, with the aim of allowing a deeper understanding of the energy sector, in a way that stimulates solution-driven discourse. Our content is relevant, fresh and timeless and focuses on industry developments, news and analysis, regulatory insights, policy news and analysis, industry challenges and opportunities, legislative changes, relevant case law, technology news, expert opinions on industry matters, company profiles, and career development.

Core requirements

Knowledge of the SA energy sector, experience in the respective industry, research skills, knowledge of the policy and regulatory landscape in your respective industry, industry contacts and network, familiarity with industry stakeholders, content development skills (ability to interpret themes and develop informative and empowering content relevant to the target audience), project management skills, social media presence, communication skills (written and verbal), research ethics and interview skills.

Payment

Articles will be reviewed and paid on per word basis according to prevailing industry rates. Please visit www.penergymedia.com to access our editorial philosophy and guidelines.

Submission of responses

Please email your profile demonstrating your level of experience and the skills above in your industry to energyharvest@penergymedia.com and a covering letter demonstrating the value that you will add to the magazine. Your email subject line should include your area of interest e.g., Contributing Editor – Petroleum.

All respondents will be contacted for further discussion on the magazine and the mutual benefits that this opportunity would offer.

For enquiries: Please email enquiries@penergymedia.com.